Santa Barbara injury attorney Bradford D. Brown's auto accident client was awarded $538,000 - the largest personal injury verdict in the Santa Barbara County in 2014.

SANTA BARBARA, CA (May 2014) – Santa Barbara personal injury attorney Bradford D. Brown of The Law Offices of Bradford D. Brown A.P.C. represented an automobile accident victim in a case that would become the largest personal injury verdict in Santa Barbara County for 2014.

A Santa Barbara County jury awarded Brown's client over $500,000 for damages from her automobile accident. The case of Reese vs. Mingramm was filed on August 30, 2011. The Plaintiff (represented by Brown) and Defendant were in a T-Bone collision in a Santa Barbara intersection. Reese entered the intersection on a green light. Mingramm also claimed to have had the green light, but an outside witness stated that he saw the Defendant (Mingramm) run the light. The Plaintiff sustained injuries that the Defendant denied responsibility for until the trial began. After much litigation, Mingramm reluctantly admitted fault to the auto accident.

Brown's client was awarded a total of $538,000 on September 30, 2014. The Plaintiff's counsel notes explained that this was the largest personal injury verdict in Santa Barbara County in 2014. Allstate was the insurer and the most money they offered was $24,500.00. The verdict is twenty-two times higher than the offer.

Of the record-making verdict Brown was quoted as saying, "My client's sleep and daily living was interrupted by the abdominal trauma that occurred during this automobile accident. It is a relief to both the victim and myself to see this verdict reached after three long years of trial. The amount awarded will help cover her medical expenses and future doctor visits to care for her health issues."
